Position: Backcountry Trip Assistant
Program: Opal Creek Expeditions
Location: Bend, OR with frequent travel to Oregon Wilderness Areas
Work year: Seasonal: June 7–August 30
Responsible to: Expedition Coordinator; Program Director
Compensation: $100/day

Who We Are
At Opal Creek Ancient Forest Center, all of our work is based around one simple idea: people will protect what they care about, and they will care about what they know. Through our education programs, we bring youth and adults face-to-face with the outdoor places that make Oregon great—pristine mountain streams, uncut vistas, and old-growth forests.

Our base of operations—a historic off-grid mining town in the Opal Creek Wilderness—was decimated by wildfire in 2020. As we look to the future, this year we take our popular Opal Creek Expeditions backpacking program on the road!

Who You Are
● You pursue experiences in nature that enrich you.
● You are curious and always learning. You enjoy teaching with the forest as your classroom.
● You thrive on teams with diverse perspectives and identities, and you seek to understand differences.
● You embrace a challenge; you are open to and excited by the unpredictability that comes with co-leading a newly-mobile backpacking program.
● You strive to live light on the land.
● You honor history while seeking new approaches for the future.
● You have strong rapport with youth.

Role Impact and Responsibility
As a Backcountry Trip Assistant, you co-lead educational, fun, and safe backpacking trips via our Opal Creek Expeditions program. Small groups traverse miles of backcountry trail, summit ridgelines and peaks, and visit subalpine lakes and streams, all with you and one Backcountry Trip Leader as their guide. As you bring your unique energy and enthusiasm to the backcountry, you’ll see that spread to each group, creating lasting memories.

Specific responsibilities of the position are listed below:
● Co-lead Youth, Adult, and Private Expeditions of up to 10 participants in the Oregon wilderness*
● Teach backcountry skills: navigation, backcountry cooking, Leave No Trace principles, etc.
● Facilitate activities that build confidence, leadership, and teamwork
● Customize each trip to group and individual needs and interests
● Teach observational science
● Prepare food and gear for each upcoming trip
● Organize and clean gear for the following trip
● Photograph participants in the backcountry for Opal Creek social media
● Integrate learnings from each trip to future Opal Creek Expeditions

*During the COVID-19 pandemic, we have three categories of Expedition offerings and you will co-lead a combination of all three: 1. Youth Expeditions (5-days, ages 10-18), 2. Adult Expeditions (3-days, ages 18+), and 3. Private Expeditions (3-days, all ages consisting of one pod/COVID-bubble). In all Opal Creek Expeditions we adhere to recommended guidelines by the CDC, State of Oregon, and Oregon Health Authority.

Requirements of Position
● 1+ years working with youth in a camp setting, or equivalent experience
● Strong group management skills
● Backpacking experience, personal or professional
● Demonstrated commitment to equity and inclusion through past job experience, personal activism, or other pertinent experience
● Able to lead groups on hikes up to 10 miles with heavy packs
● Wilderness First Aid certification (by time of employment)
● COVID-19 vaccine (by time of employment) or willingness to take frequent COVID-19 tests
● Able to pass a background check
● Current driver’s license

Compensation
● $100/day: ~8 days on, 5 days off
● Food provided while leading trips
● Housing not provided
● Mileage reimbursement to/from trailheads
